

A Saturday Afternoon June 26th Fixing Story

I was at Little John's, a company that transported stone, cinders and dirt. I saw that something weird was happening, because the "big yellow rusty thing" was turning backwards and making a big pile of stone below it. Then Willis, one of the Little John helpers rushed out and handled "the big yellow rusty thing". He pushed the straps the right way it was supposed to go on the conveyor. The "Silver Bed" dump truck was getting filled up, and delivered it to my house. Not only was it so exciting, but Daddy had got some Woodland Mulch stone. Woodland Mulch was another company.

Chapter 2 Adventures of the Frogs

I got lots of frogs for my birthday. I found them in their aquarium next Saturday morning. They were looking out the window at a robin named Jackie. I told them "hop behind me, and lets go to Little John's and look at the silver and black beds".

Chapter 3 Ten Quarts of Stones

One Sunday morning, Daddy told me to go to Little John's and get ten quarts of stones. I got two shovels full and put them in the bucket and took them home to Daddy. The leaves were falling like wild because it was a fall Sunday day. It was very nice. It was not raining but the sun was blazing down. The Silver Bed set a mouse trap because it had seen a mouse sneaking around during night time.
