

The Princess Prisoner

By Willow Workman

There was a princess who lived in this fancy castle. There was this mean potion guy and an assistant named Fluffy. They wanted to steal the princess so they could keep her prisoner and take her necklace. They want to steal the necklace because it has powers. They want to drain the power in the secret headquarters so they turn into kings. It turns into a boy castle that boys are only allowed in.

The guards try to hide the princess because they looked on the computer and saw that the bad guys were coming soon. The bad guys flew an airplane to jump off with their parachutes. They had a trampoline they were going to jump on. When they're in the air, they can search all over the world for the princess. Their mom told them that the best place to look for something is in the air. They were super close to the princess. They found the princess in the junk yard hiding in the bathroom. The cage caught her when she came out of the bathroom. The princess took the key from the cages. It was in the cage. They weren't really smart. So, she used the key to unlock the door and ran out. On her way she took her necklace before they could melt it. The princess partied with party hats, balloons, confetti, and cake. And the princess got to blow the candles out. The end!
