

Title: The Sports Switch

Written By: Isaiah Zollinger

Jessie, Messi, and Jackson now knew how great it was to try new things.

In a town called Charlesville three kids were practicing soccer and basketball. One of the kids named Messi was a soccer pro, another kid named Jessie was Messi's friend but was also a soccer player. Then there was a random kid named Jackson and instead of playing soccer like Jessie and Messi he was playing basketball.

Then Messi whispered to Jessie "I bet Jackson won't even know how to play soccer." But then Jackson heard Messi and yelled "I bet you won't change sports with me for the week!!!"

They both took the bet. Jessie was Jackson's coach and Messi had to figure out all of the basketball rules by himself.

For the first few days Jackson wouldn't do a single thing but watch Messi who was trying to search the internet for the basketball rules.

Finally after another two days he tried to learn the rules of soccer.

On the last day of the bet the two versed each other in soccer and basketball. The first game was Jackson versus Messi in soccer. Now Jackson was good but not good enough. He lost by two points.

The next game was still Jackson versus Messi except in basketball instead of soccer. Messi kind of did well but got zero points so he lost three to zero.

Now the two said "Good job." and "I'm sorry for not believing in you." Now the two went back to their own sports. Then on the last day of school Jessie was now Messi's friend and Jackson's friend. Now Jackson was still not Messi's friend and Messi was not Jackson's friend. So the two did not like each other but they weren't jerks to each other. Now it is not that bad in Charlesville.

In conclusion to this story it was a very good ending so it is now

THE END!!!
