

Kelsey and the Mystical Land
Written By: Sofia Wagler

Last summer was one that Kelsey could never forget.

Kelsey was looking out the window, watching the raindrops fall down, then onto the window.

“Are we there yet? I'm bored.” Kelsey mumbled, loud enough for her parents to hear her. Her dad looked at her in disgrace.

“Kelsey, you should be grateful we even brought you, and we just arrived, now set your tent up, and don't even complain about the wet ground, I don't want you in our camper.”

It suddenly stopped raining, so Kelsey was very glad she wouldn't have to set her tent up being wet. Her parents had a glorious camper, but her parents thought Kelsey was always too dirty to be in the camper, so they gave her a tent, and ever since she was three, she would have to sleep in it, even as nine years passed ever since she got it, she still slept in it.

When the sunset approached, Kelsey went out in the woods, wishing to be alone, where nobody disliked her. Just then, she saw two trees twisted together with a gap at the bottom. Kelsey looked back, then tied her long brown hair out of her face, then walked more near the gap in the trees. Then, she closed her eyes, and went through the gap. If anything were through the mysterious trees that would have hurt her, she would not see it.

As she suddenly opened her eyes, it turned out that the gap in the trees was no ordinary gap, but it was a portal! She looked around and started moving slowly.

“What is this place? Who else is here? What has happened to me? Am I alone?” Kelsey whispered to herself. She was not alone, in fact, she was far from alone.

Kelsey looked around, noticing it was...quiet...very quiet. She turned around, hearing heavy footsteps, then, she heard heavy breathing, and a light grumble, she then turned around.

“Hello, Kelsey.” Right there before her eyes she saw the mightiest, most majestic lion she had ever seen.

“Who are you? What is your land called? And, how did I get here, and who else is here?” Kelsey said, very surprised, but confused.

“I myself, am Aztar, you're in Azland, all of the centaurs need your help, we are under attack by the Azland witch, hop on my back, I will show you the others.” Aztar replied.

When they arrived where the centaur's camp was, one of them gave her a knight's outfit, along with a sword.

“We need you to fight with us, Kelsey, will you lead the centaurs?” Aztar asked.

Kelsey nodded at Aztar. After hours, they arrived at the battle field. After many hours of fighting, Azland had won.

“Well done, Kelsey, in honor, we shall crown you queen.”

Kelsey nodded once again. After she was crowned, she finally felt appreciated. Her parents forgot about her, and she forgot them, The end.